Florida Jet Center Promotes Three to Top Director Positions

Fort Lauderdale, Florida- Florida Jet, a premier Learjet Maintenance, Parts and Charter Company, announced today the promotion of three exceptional employees: Jim Long, Kelle Goodwin and Steve Ratkowski.

Jim Long has been promoted to Director of Maintenance Sales for Florida Jet Center, the Learjet maintenance division. As the former Maintenance Manager, Jimmy will now be responsible for all operations, sales and scheduling for the department. An experienced mechanic with over eight years of service at Florida Jet Center, Jimmy has proven his dedication to the Maintenance division by contributing to an average 20% annual increase in business.

Kelle Goodwin has been named Director of Charter Sales for Florida Jet's Charter Division, Florida Jet Service. With extensive experience in travel planning and over seven years of service at Florida Jet Service, Kelle will lead this division, interface with customers on a daily basis and continue to develop growth plans for the department. Previously, Kelle was the manager of this division.

Steve Ratkowski has been promoted to the Director of Parts Sales for Florida Jet Center. Steve has nine years of service with Florida Jet and has grown the parts business over 50% during the past year. Steve will be responsible for all staffing, scheduling and growth planning for the parts division.

Florida Jet President Terry Robertson stated, "Jim, Kelle and Steve have proven they are the team to be promoted to these Director positions. Turning over more leadership and responsibility to them will allow the company to grow and become an even stronger player in the Learjet charter, maintenance and spare parts businesses. With their constant dedication and loyalty to the company, this was the right decision to make for our business."
